We are delighted to announce that beginning January 1, 2020, Center for Resilient Cities and Community GroundWorks will merge to become Rooted! We will have a new name and a new look, but remain the same organizations you have come to know and love over the past twenty years.

Our Mission: Collaborations rooted in food, land, and learning.

Rooted has evolved from a desire to merge the strengths of two vibrant Madison organizations committed to collaborations that enable people to grow and thrive in healthy, equitable, and sustainable neighborhoods. Now, we will continue that work together.

Rooted will have the same staff, locations, and programs. The programs at Troy Gardens and Badger Rock that have created spaces to learn and grow and feed families will be even stronger as we merge our common love for gardening and our shared commitment to community-driven programs. As Rooted, we look forward to implementing new, community-dreamed programs, while still holding the programs that you have helped us build.

We look forward to our future work with you, and we are grateful for all who share our unwavering belief that, to grow and thrive, we must be Rooted in community.
